Let's Get to the "Core" of Language

Charlotte Mecklenburg Schools
Diane Drakulic, MA, CCC-SLP
Cindy Monroe, MS, CCC-SLP
Joanna Zanni, MA, CCC-SLP

Our story.....

We support 170 schools
182 EC self contained classrooms

- It's taken time for us to educate teachers and therapists about core
- We use high tech when appropriate
- We have found light tech can be powerful in the classroom
 - less intimidating
 - higher implementation - would rather see light tech being used than high tech sitting on the shelf

Core Vocabulary

- What does the research tell us?
 - 80% of the words we say comes from a list of 200 words;
 - 85-90% of the words we say comes from a list of 300-400 words (Baker & Hill, 2000)
- When was the last time you said...

go Dolly Parton more get cinnamon

Neptune see and jeopardy like tornado Dora run is are

Typical Topic Board

Typical Problems

- Lack of range of parts of speech, heavy use of nouns
- Restricted communicative functions
- Commonly interpret function as labeling or requesting objects
- Nouns often present in context
- Higher quantity of nouns to learn

Core Vocabulary in Communication in Everyday Situations

- Preschool Age
- Example: Brown Bear, Brown Bear book
 - “What do you see?” (I see a...)
- Instead of only asking the child “what do you see?” and only requiring a label...
 - “Tell me something about the bear...” (he is big; he is brown; I don't like)
 - Have the child ask you or other children “what do you see” in other environments for carry over activity

Motor Automaticity

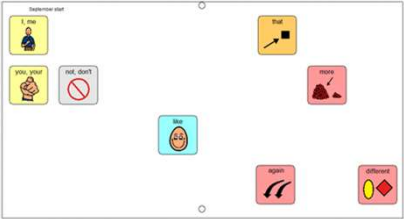

- “Location learning” vs symbolic discrimination
- Developing motor patterns associated with specific symbols
- Makes communication faster, easier
- Requires consistent layout, symbols don't move

cms Every Child. Every Day. For a Better Tomorrow. 13

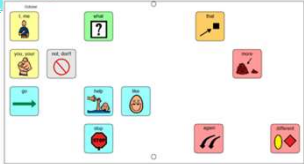

Progressive Core Communication Boards

- We started with a 3 year old EC classroom.
- We wanted a way to make core available and wanted the teachers to “buy in”.
- We started with 8 words and added 4 more words each month.
- After 7 months (March) entire board was filled. We used Tech Speak template - 32 cells.

Core Fringe Vocabulary Flip Book

- Portable
- Good for students who are in general education classrooms
- Easy to customize the fringe

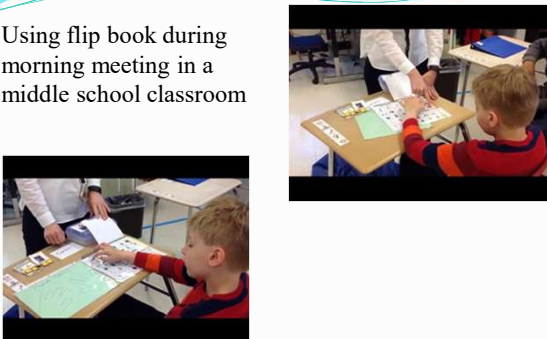

Some classrooms have found that using a three ring notebook is more durable
